CityTouch in action

- Thanks to the implementation of CityTouch and LED lighting, the Spanish city of Salobre cut their energy bill by more than 70%.
- After extensive testing of a number of systems on the market, the city of Los Angeles chose CityTouch as the “best product at the lowest price”.

Philips CityTouch is the most advanced connected street lighting management system. It is the easiest way to manage your city's lighting through a near real-time, map-based view.

CityTouch integrates devices, intuitive software-as-a-service applications and specialized services, to transform a city's lighting operations. It connects via existing mobile networks, so there is no need to invest in proprietary technology.

Transform your city lighting

CityTouch gives you full control over your entire lighting infrastructure, including managing light levels and accurate energy metering of individual light points. It gives you a near real-time status of your city lighting without the need for any manual scouting, as well as auto-notification of faults and flexible adaptation of light levels. You can control street lights remotely and set up dimming schedules. And you can easily verify energy billing.

“Do you want to become a connected city? But without getting locked-in to a single luminaire vendor?”

CityTouch Ready luminaires: the easy way to build your CityTouch network

Philips is launching the CityTouch Ready Partner Program initially in Europe. Certified vendors will provide you with new CityTouch Ready luminaires of different brands and types. These intelligent luminaires will connect automatically to CityTouch. You maintain a fully open platform without getting locked-in to a specific luminaire vendor!

The list of certified partners is continuously growing. Feel free to propose a luminaire vendor that you would like to see certified. This way you can use your preferred brand of luminaire together with the CityTouch lighting management system.

All CityTouch Ready luminaires can be handled exactly like traditional luminaires during installation. Once installed, the luminaires connect automatically to the CityTouch management system, upload their location and technical data, and start transmitting operational information. Integration is seamless. No additional hardware components or special commissioning techniques are needed. The user-friendly interface of the CityTouch software means you can control your city's lighting simply and intuitively from a desktop computer via the CityTouch connect application.

CityTouch Ready Partner Program

Maintain an open system

We believe that a Smart City can only be successfully smart – today and into the future – if it is open. One important aspect of being an open city is to have open systems in place: solutions that connect luminaires from different vendors.

The CityTouch Ready Partner Program plays a crucial role in our goal to cultivate openness, so Philips is partnering with third-party luminaire vendors. Once certified, they can integrate the CityTouch connector component into their luminaires, converting them into CityTouch Ready luminaires that you can install as part of your lighting infrastructure. Installation is the same as for any Philips luminaire, with automatic commissioning, location detection and data upload.

The CityTouch Ready Partner Program is designed to give you – the customer – peace of mind, ensuring that every luminaire in your city is CityTouch-ready, giving you efficient and flexible lighting management.

Experience the highest quality

The CityTouch Ready Partner Program is available to all luminaire vendors. Any vendor wishing to become a CityTouch Ready Partner first completes the certification process. This ensures that all CityTouch Ready luminaires are truly plug-and-play in the field, delivering the same ease of use whatever brand they are.

Your new luminaires are auto-located on the map with all asset data in place
